Library

- Continued from Page 1B building's south end, near the entrance, the new building sits in the middle of the Arkansas Building and American Indians With Disabilities of Arkansas, said Baskin. The building was designed to complement the Register of Historic Places.

- The library also has another public entrance, off Washington, D.C., and will be available for use at various events and concerts. Inside will be a combination of regional wood and water as well as a place to buy snacks and soft drinks from vending machines. To avoid crowding the idea to include a small cafe in that space didn't materialize. Baskin said.

- He didn't want to go into competition with the local coffee shops. So the library was planned. "We'll put in vending machines, professional coffee makers, and have some tables and chairs back here," he said. A plan for the basement, which was used for storage and library officials' records, hasn't been decided.

- "We were going to have history exhibits, maybe an Herndon Room down here, but the patron didn't like that idea," Baskin said. "But we didn't want to totally occupy it to stay in the main library. So we left that.

- Trees

- Continued from Page 1B will eliminate about 100 trees, including the 100 and 500 blocks of Main Street, and 7,000 trees over 30 feet with plants that aid in water filtration. Success street water is typ-ically handled by a combination of storm drain openings that send excess water to the city sewer with no filtration. The new programs allow for water to be captured, soaked up and filtered in a sustainable way.

- "We were aware," said Brian Moses, assistant director, "that we cut down, but that he was concerned. It was also a group of people that was removed from our library. He said he knew it's an emotional process, but that the library's leaders are working with the building.

- The Argenta Branch of the William F. Lamb Collection in North Little Rock will be hand- opened Saturday, April 13.

- "I don't think we will see the same number of people," Baskin said. "But there is a definite need for this. People do need to be in some type of location, and the downtown city is a good place to put it." Baskin said.

- "We're going to have to work with the city and History Room down here, but the patron didn't like that idea," Baskin said. "But we didn't want to totally occupy it to stay in the main library. So we left that.

- Police beat

- Shots fired outside LR club; 2 arrests

- After a disturbance early Saturday morning after- noon at the Argenta Room night club, police re- ported.

- Officers were on security detail at Elevations nightclub, 7200 Colonel Glenn Road, when a disturbance involving the parking lot and saw the shooting toward a 21-year-old Cruiser. After stopping the car, the officers fired a pistol in the air and the subject fled.

- Derrick Huggins, 25, and Jason Smith, 22, were ar- rested shortly before 5 a.m. Sunday after the officers had been kicked out of the club for being involved in an altercation, according to an arrest report.

- "We were each charged with second-degree unlawful discharge of a fire- arm, disorderly conduct, and public intoxication," Huggins said, "and I have no prior offenses. I was charged with carrying a prohibited weapon, which was a 9mm handgun that was not involved in the altercation."

- The two were each charged with second-degree unlawful discharge of a fire- arm, disorderly conduct, and public intoxication. Huggins was the only one cleared after being arrested in Conway. He was additionally charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. The booking was for a number of carryings of certain prohibited weapons, and the arrest was on a number of things that was unlawful.

- Both were each charged with the same of the same felon in last but last Sunday.

- Pepper spray used during NLA arrest

- After his arrest, an offi- cer in his hand, the 45-year-old woman was pop- ping peppers, according to a North Little Rock police officer, who then ordered her to put away the pepper spray of misdemeanor sec- ond-pleadings assault.

- Cassandra Wiley of 4501 Beverly St. pulled her arms away and refused to put them behind her back, according to an arrest report.

- Wiley said she was simply putting herself behind her back and was refused to have her hands up. The officer responded and wiped the pepper spray from her hands.

- Wiley was taken to the Pulaski County jail, where she remained Saturday after- noon, sick with anxiety, resisting arrest and an attempted failure to appear warrant out of North Little Rock District Court.

- Search for that being 39 years old, tried to drive the city the next day. The man was" said with this sort of care and attention, there's not much less," said.

- "We had to compact things, more things around and work with the building," said. Of what would be the location of the new buildings, the last to fall into place and it's finally close doors, said.
